

The Rodney L. White Center for Financial Research

CALL FOR PAPERS

Conference on Financial Decisions and Asset Markets

The Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania

March 27, 2020

CONFERENCE OVERVIEW:

The Rodney L. White Center for Financial Research invites academics to present their current research on topics related to empirical asset pricing, investment management, and household portfolio choice. The conference participants will include academicians and practitioners with expertise in this area. The majority of the papers will include empirical work. The conference format will include the presentation of four papers with two discussants for each paper. Attendance is by invitation only.

Presenters at recent R. L. White conferences have included Colin Camerer, John Campbell, Lauren Cohen, Eugene Fama, Kenneth French, David Hsieh, Pete Kyle, Andrew Lo, Gregor Matvos, Chester Spatt, Laura Starks, and Lu Zhang. Industry participants have included John Ameriks, Cliff Asness, John Bogle, Charley Ellis, Owen Lamont, Bob Litterman, Bill McNabb, Gus Sauter, Stephen Utkus, and Mark Zandi.

The conference offers a dual submission option with the Review of Asset Pricing Studies at no additional cost. Authors may choose to submit to the conference program only, or to submit to both the conference and RAPS. This is a “no-fault” submission option, which means if RAPS rejects your paper, you may submit to any SFS journal at a later date without penalty. Note that, according to the SFS dual submission rules, papers considered under the dual submission program cannot be under consideration at any other journal. The details of the dual submission program may be found at <http://sfs.org/dualsubmissionpolicy>.

ORGANIZING COMMITTEE:

The organizing committee consists of Jules van Binsbergen and Nikolai Roussanov from the Finance Department of the Wharton School.

CONFERENCE LOCATION:

The Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

PROVISIONS FOR THE PARTICIPANTS:

The R. L. White Center will provide for travel expenses and hotel accommodations for academics and practitioners who are presenting or discussing papers.
